

Title: Ek-Villain

Year: 2014

Genres: Romance, action

Storyline: The movie starts with Aisha Verma (Shraddha Kapoor) calling her husband and leaving a message for him. A mysterious man in a hood breaks into her house, murders her with a screwdriver, and throws her out of the window. At her funeral, CBI officer Aditya Rathore (Shaad Randhawa) points out to the police that it is vital to track down the murderer or else Guru Divekar (Sidharth Malhotra), Aisha's husband, would go on a killing spree. Here Guru's background is shown in flashbacks, along with how he meets Aisha. Guru, in the past, was a ruthless killer working for gangster Caesar (Remo Fernandes), in Goa, after he joined Caesar's group following Caesar's decision to give Guru a chance to murder the goons who killed his parents. He gets arrested for killing a young man, Debu, but ultimately gets bailed, as Debu's mother, a witness, refuses to testify against Guru. She however warns Guru that one day God would make him pay for his crimes and he will also end up losing a loved one. Guru meets Aisha, a free spirited girl in love with life, who requests him to help her with reuniting two aged lovers. They soon become friends and Aisha reveals to him that she has a terminal illness, and tells him about her bucket list. Guru helps her fulfill most of those wishes but her health deteriorates. Falling in love with her, Guru marries Aisha. He tries every means to save her. She receives treatment in Mumbai and miraculously recovers. Few days later she discovers she is pregnant but the doctor tells her that she might die while delivering the baby. She conceals this fact from Guru. In a parallel story, Rakesh Mahadkar (Riteish Deshmukh) is an unsuccessful and henpecked man who is constantly nagged and ridiculed by his wife Sulochana (Aamna Sharif) for being useless and poor. He vents out his frustration by murdering women who speak rudely to him, and Aisha turns out to be one of them.

Written by Nadya Wulandari

Actors: Sidharth Malhotra, Shraddha Kapoor, Ritesh Deshmukh, Aamna Sharif, Nihar Gite, Shaad Randhawa, Remo Fernandes, Rishina Khandare, Kamaal R Khan, Anagha Joshi, Aradhana Uppal,, Geet Baghela, Harsh Mehta, Rini Das, Yash Acharya, Asif Basra, Vidyahar Karmarkar, Maharangiz Acharya, Vikas Shrivastav, Kamal Karamchandani, Vinita Ama